

THE GAZETTE.

SATURDAY, MARCH 10.

THE STORY OF TWO COUSINS.

The death of Emperor William, and the shortly coming death of his son, the crown prince, Frederick William, calls to mind very naturally how conspicuous were the father and the son of the nephew, Frederick Charles, in the Franco-German war in 1870-71. Probably the annals of war in modern times do not furnish a more trivial cause for war than that alleged by Napoleon for declaring war against Germany. It took but half a dozen words and an intrusion upon King William in the garden at Ems, by Count Benedetti to cover the political horizon of Europe with a dark war-cloud. This was on the 12th of July, 1870, and on the 19th of the same month Bismarck formally received a declaration of war from the French government. The war which followed was one of the greatest and most decisive of modern times. In less than one year the empire of France tumbled to pieces and upon the ruins thereof was established the empire of Germany.

In this war two cousins, the one who is now dying in Berlin and succeeded his father, as emperor, and the other, Prince Frederick Charles, son of Emperor William's brother. The lives of these two men and the distinction they won in early manhood in the great battle-fields of Europe are well worth studying by the young men of today. Frederick William was but thirty-five years old when the Franco-German war broke out in 1870. Although he was the son of a king and the son-in-law of the queen of England, he had the metal of the old Kaiser in him. He commanded the second army in that war, and was placed by his father where he had to fight and meet the greatest obstacles and danger. He made some stupendous marches and fought some splendid battles. In the Franco-German war he was assigned to the command of Fifth, Sixth, and Eleventh North German corps, and all the troops of the South German states, and fought like a giant, a Sherman and a Sheridan, in most of the leading engagements of that war. He fought at Sedan with his entire command, his father being with him and watching with unpeppable pride the commanding courage and the strategic skill of the son. Phil Sheridan was also on that battlefield, and saw the young crown prince give to France her second Waterloo.

Prince Frederick Charles was three years older than his cousin, the crown prince. He too, was a splendid fighter. He was a man of sense and brains before he reached his majority. Before he was twenty-one he was on the staff of his uncle, King William, and fought well in the Baden campaign. He was in the war against Denmark in 1864 and in 1866 in the Franco-German war, he commanded the first army, and his able generalship very largely contributed to the success of the war. He was given the command of the second army in the Franco-German war, embracing the Second, Third, Fourth, Tenth, and Twelfth corps of North Germany, and captured Metz. His troops fought the bloodiest battle of the whole war—Gravelotte—in which the Germans numbered 211,000, and the French 140,000. He lost over 20,000 men, but gained the victory in the presence of his uncle, who was commander-in-chief of the German armies.

Those of to-day who were too young to pay much attention to the Franco-German war at the time it was in progress, will do well to study, not only the character of that war, but the unique character of the two young men and cousins who gained such distinction for good sense, courage, and generalship in one of the most important wars of modern times.

Dr. James G. Hyndman doesn't know what he is talking about. There are scores of Catholic priests in this country who wear beards. There are several in Wisconsin, one of them living in Janesville.

A word fitting the time, from ex-Governor Long, of Massachusetts:

"The republican party has represented, and should continue to represent, the best moral sentiment and the cause of reform in every direction. Against such an evil as intemperance and the political liquor power it should be equipped with no uncertain sound. The time has come when it should be identified with temperance sentiment of the people—when it should be the party to which that sentiment looks for wholesome liquor laws and their vigorous enforcement."

A letter signed "Grover Cleveland," declining a re-nomination, and printed in the Albany Times, is denounced by Colonel Lamont as a deliberate forgery, according to the Washington Post, which, however, admits that the document is a clever imitation of the president's style. It may be a little too easy to look for Mr. Cleveland's declination. But according to the democratic papers he is a man of his word, and as he said he would not accept a second nomination, the letter will be forthcoming in a few weeks.

The first couplet of the campaign is published by an Indiana paper, which remarks:

With Judge Graham we can't tread on Well, the republicans have made up their minds to "thresh 'em" anyway. There will be just enough republican clubs to do the business handsomely.

There are a good many presidential "booms" that should be taken into some back yard and receive the same treatment which an unappreciated joke would receive.

The wealthiest Knight of Pythias in the world is said to be Live Oak Lodge of Oakland Cal. Its membership is over 300, and the aggregate wealth runs high in the millions. Its treasury represents $2,500,000 and $3,000,000. All furniture used in the lodge is covered with Morocco. One of the aged members recently died, bequeathing the lodge $300,000, and his widow, who did not long survive him, willed the lodge $100,000.

A DESERVED COMPLIMENT.

The call upon Judge Bennett to become a candidate for re-election, calls out a few words of compliment from the State Journal, which are well merited: "An election for circuit judge occurs this spring in the Twelfth judicial circuit, comprising the counties of Rock, Green and Jefferson, and almost the entire bar of those counties and fifteen hundred of the leading citizens of the circuit have united in asking Hon. John R. Bennett, the present judge, to stand for re-election. The call is signed by attorneys and citizens of both political parties, and it does not appear at present that Judge Bennett, who consents to stand for re-election, will have any opposition. This is a fitting recognition of the ability, integrity and strict impartiality which have characterized Judge Bennett's judicial administration; it is an endorsement of which he is justly entitled to indulge in satisfaction and pride. He has been a leading member of the Rock county bar for more than forty years, and has been distinguished throughout this long career for his thorough and painstaking devotion to the highest and best principles and impulses of the legal profession. Upon the rolls of the higher courts, state and federal, he stands in the foremost rank, and his pleas before these tribunals have been models of clear, terse and sound legal propositions and conclusions. In his note of acceptance he says that, if re-elected, his sole object will be to labor conscientiously and continually to achieve a just and impartial administration of the laws in all cases coming before him."

The Gresham boom appears to be breaking out all over the country. The St. Louis Globe-Democrat says: "Judge Gresham is the favorite of the people as distinguished from the politicians. This would be a good year to try the experiment of compelling the politicians to stand aside and of permitting the people to select the candidate." But the opponents of Judge Gresham are already at work in the effort to show how weak he is. It is charged that the bar is against him, because he is irritable on the bench and unkind to the members of the bar, and it is also charged that the farmers of Indiana are opposed to him because he once rendered a decision in a patent right case which cost the farmers of that state hundreds of thousands of dollars, and was reversed by the supreme court of the United States. Ben Harrison will carry the Indiana delegation.

The criticisms on the mail service throughout the country, still continues, and a sample of the trouble which exists in many states, is furnished by a business man of Janesville. On the 15th of February a letter was mailed from Cleveland, Ohio, to him in very plain handwriting. On the 16th of the month it reached Ganettville, where it took a rest of nearly three weeks. It was then sent to Galeville, Wisconsin, and the democratic postmaster at that place being able to read, forwarded the letter to Janesville, where it was received on the 5th instant. It is said by persons who do not speak for partisan motives, that the present mail service, especially in the east and in the south, is the poorest the country has had since the war.

Dr. James G. Hyndman of the Ohio Medical college tells how the only Catholic priest in America who wears a beard came to let his whiskers grow. The priest, whose pastoral duties are performed in Cincinnati, is subject to persecution. One day a crowd of Dr. Hyndman let him be beard grow and had a further inflammation in his throat. His superior, however, objected to the innovation and the priest was obliged to go to Rome to obtain permission to wear whiskers.—Chicago Tribune.

Dr. James G. Hyndman doesn't know what he is talking about. There are scores of Catholic priests in this country who wear beards. There are several in Wisconsin, one of them living in Janesville.

A word fitting the time, from ex-Governor Long, of Massachusetts:

"The republican party has represented, and should continue to represent, the best moral sentiment and the cause of reform in every direction. Against such an evil as intemperance and the political liquor power it should be equipped with no uncertain sound. The time has come when it should be identified with temperance sentiment of the people—when it should be the party to which that sentiment looks for wholesome liquor laws and their vigorous enforcement."

A letter signed "Grover Cleveland," declining a re-nomination, and printed in the Albany Times, is denounced by Colonel Lamont as a deliberate forgery, according to the Washington Post, which, however, admits that the document is a clever imitation of the president's style. It may be a little too easy to look for Mr. Cleveland's declination. But according to the democratic papers he is a man of his word, and as he said he would not accept a second nomination, the letter will be forthcoming in a few weeks.

The first couplet of the campaign is published by an Indiana paper, which remarks:

With Judge Graham we can't tread on Well, the republicans have made up their minds to "thresh 'em" anyway. There will be just enough republican clubs to do the business handsomely.

There are a good many presidential "booms" that should be taken into some back yard and receive the same treatment which an unappreciated joke would receive.

The wealthiest Knight of Pythias in the world is said to be Live Oak Lodge of Oakland Cal. Its membership is over 300, and the aggregate wealth runs high in the millions. Its treasury represents $2,500,000 and $3,000,000. All furniture used in the lodge is covered with Morocco. One of the aged members recently died, bequeathing the lodge $300,000, and his widow, who did not long survive him, willed the lodge $100,000.

SPECIAL TELEGRAMS.

Emperor Frederick Leaves San Remo for the German Capital.

The Latest Reports from the Sullivan-Mitchell Battle-Field.

THE EMPEROR FREDERICK.

Special to the Gazette.

SAN REMO, March 10th.—The Emperor Frederick passed a very comfortable night, feeling greatly refreshed this morning. He left here early this morning on a special train for Berlin.

SULLIVAN AND MITCHELL.

Special to the Gazette.

PARIS, March 10th.—The pugilists Sullivan and Mitchell are at Creil, thirty-two miles north of this city. A report has been received that the men have commenced the great fight, which was afterwards contradicted, by stating that the fight would take place this afternoon. The police are cognizant of the movements of the pugilists, and are determined to prevent a riot.

FOR PROTECTION.

The Illinois League of Republican Clubs Favors the High Tariff Policy of the Party—The State Organization Effected.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., March 10.—At yesterday morning's session of the convention of the Illinois League of Republican Clubs, the Committee on the Constitution of the State League reported the form recommended by the National League, with slight modifications. It provides for a president, one vice-president from each county, one secretary, two assistant secretaries and a treasurer. The Executive Committee is to consist of one member from each county, and when more than one Congressional district lies in a county, to an additional member from each of such districts. The constitution provides that the league shall support no candidate and have no platform of principles, but shall pledge itself to the support of the platform of the platform of the Republican party as expressed in its convention. The constitution was adopted. The resolutions as adopted reviewed the history of the Republican party, prophesied triumph in the future, and praised the Republican system of tariff law by which they had at once reduced taxation and protected American labor and industries. The league was pledged to support only the candidate and platform of the Republican party. A liberal pension policy was advocated, and the young men of the party were urged to the aid and encouraged to work for the success of the party.

The convention took a recess to await the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization of the State Republican League, which was made at noon, as follows: President, W. W. Tracy, of Springfield; Secretary, James W. Patterson, of Joliet; First Assistant Secretary, Richard Yates, of Jacksonville; Second Assistant Secretary, A. J. Leslie, of Springfield; Treasurer, Charles Deere, of York. The committee recommended that the league be organized as follows: Districts, E. A. Morris, of Chicago; Second, L. M. Bradley, of Chicago; Third, J. M. Smyth, of Chicago; Fourth, G. W. Deas, of Chicago; Fifth, G. H. Gilmore, of Woodstock; Sixth, M. E. Schenck, of Seneca; Seventh, J. W. Dixon, of Dixon; Eighth, C. B. Fletcher, of Dixon; Ninth, J. L. Hamilton, of Joliet; Tenth, D. C. Blawie, of Joliet; Eleventh, J. W. Patterson, of Joliet; Twelfth, J. L. Matthews, of Joliet; Thirteenth, J. L. Davis, of Taylorville; Fourteenth, M. K. Ryan, of Decatur; Fifteenth, W. R. Jewell, of Danville; Sixteenth, B. F. Barnes, of Lawrenceville; Seventeenth, P. E. Miller, of Litchfield; Eighteenth, C. L. Cook, of Nineteenth, J. E. Smith, of Saline; Twentieth, L. E. Smith, of Cobden.

The Executive Committee met immediately after adjournment and organized by electing Dr. W. W. Tracy as president, and Mr. J. W. Patterson as secretary. The committee then appointed a sub-committee, consisting of one member from each Congressional district. Later in the afternoon the sub-committee reported, each county commissioner to organize a county league in his county, and fixed June 28 as the date for a universal ratification day to approve the National and State nominations.

UNLUCKY STUDENTS.

A Methodist University at Mitchell, D. T., Destroyed by Fire—One Inmate Killed and Several Others Seriously Injured by Leaping from the Windows.

MITCHELL, D. T., March 10.—Fire broke out in the Methodist University at 3 o'clock yesterday morning from the spontaneous combustion of oil rags in the art-rooms. There were forty inmates, including the faculty, students and servants. All but ten escaped without trouble. Four young men jumped from the second-story windows, two others and a professor jumped from the third story, and another professor descended from the roof by a clothes-line. The building is completely destroyed; loss, $50,000; insurance, $75,000. It will be rebuilt. The following is a list of the victims:

Horton Fletcher, Northville, D. T., internal injuries, died in two hours; Mattie Taylor, elegant teacher, Cassia, D. T., who injured, Miss Babcock, Salina, D. T., fractured; Miss Strong, Mitchell, D. T., back bruised; Prof. Duncan, fractured hands and feet, foot frozen; Prof. E. H. Taylor, skull fractured, arm broken, internal injuries, will probably die; Will Smith, Bridgewater, D. T., leg broken, internally injured; H. Parker, Bagdad, broken arm; Mrs. Jones, Parkston, D. T., spine injured, but internally; William Stillwell, burned his feet and hands seriously in saving young lady.

Death of Thomas J. Potter.

Wausau, Wis., March 10.—The death of Mr. Thomas J. Potter, the well-known railroad manager, is announced. Mr. Potter was formerly vice-president and general manager of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railroad, and for the past two years has been vice-president and general manager of the Union Pacific. He was regarded as one of the most successful practical railway officers in this country. He was 48 years of age.

Sixteen Houses Burned.

CAMP, N. H., March 10.—A fire at Harrisburg, Sullivan County, in this State, Thursday night, destroyed sixteen houses, including one jewelry store, a drug store, two restaurants, a millinery store, a grocery and a hardware store, two warehouses, a clothing store and the Bank of Harrisburg. The total loss is about $74,000; insurance, $14,000.

Louisa M. Alcott's Will.

Boston, March 10.—Louisa M. Alcott's will, which was made public yesterday, contains an order for the burning of all her manuscripts. Louisa May Norton, of Concord, an adopted daughter, is given all the cash of the estate, $10,000, and also all the copyrights. There are no public bequests.

STRIKERS TAKE A REST.

They Await the Action of the Courts in the Wabash Suit.

THE HEARING OF THE CASE POSTPONED.

The Matter to Be Taken Up by Judge Graham on Monday—The Union Pacific Road Engaged—Retardation of Developments.

A SUIT IN THE STRIKE.

CHICAGO, March 10.—In Judge Graham's court yesterday action on the petition of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company for an order compelling Receiver McNulta, of the Wabash road, to receive the freight cars tendered him by the petitioner was, at the request of receiver, postponed until Monday next, at 2 p. m.

Pending the injunction proceedings, Mr. Arthur and his committee do little work. The committee are quietly preparing for the final battle, but in some quarters the men are united. The conservative element is against a strike until it is forced on the Brotherhood by positive and real grievances.

Yesterday afternoon the Burlington officials received the following telegram from a general manager of the Burlington & Missouri River road:

"Judge Dundy, of the United States Court, has this day issued an order requiring the Union Pacific Railway Company to take our freight cars in accordance with the terms of the Commerce law, and restraining the engineers of the Union Pacific from obstructing or interfering for the purpose of organization or advancing a strike."

This was the important news of the day in the Burlington office. A later telegram said that the Union Pacific, the Atchafalpa, Topock & Santa Fe, the Missouri Pacific and the Kansas City, Fort Scott & Gulf railroads had commenced to receive cars from the Burlington as a result of Judge Dundy's order.

The freight offices of the Burlington road are beginning to assume their normal condition of activity. All day yesterday merchandise and other freight being unloaded at the local sheds in large quantities, all destined for points on the Burlington system.

IOWA GENERAL ASSEMBLY.

Constitutional Amendment Granting National Suffrage to Women Proposed.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 10.—The House made partial adjourns yesterday for the debate Thursday of the bill granting municipal suffrage to women. A joint resolution was introduced by Mr. Custer proposing a suffrage amendment to the constitution, which, after an animated discussion, was ordered engrossed by a vote of 66 yeas to 22 nays. Sixty-two Republicans and four Democrats voted affirmatively. Twenty-two Democrats and three Republicans opposed its submission to the people. It is believed that the resolution will pass the Senate.

The Robb bill for promotion of safety of public travel on railways was engrossed by the House. The bill prohibits employment of an engineer to operate passenger locomotives who has not had at least one year's experience in operating engines. The vote on engrossment was 39 to 37—twenty-nine members absent or not voting. The fate of the bill is doubtful.

The Senate spent the day considering the Railroad bill. Numerous amendments were offered and discussed, but no material change has been made in the original bill. No vote was reached on engrossment.

PAID THE PENALTY.

May Warner Hanged at Jeffersonville for the Murder of a Fellow Convict.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., March 10.—May Warner, the murderer, was hanged a little before noon yesterday by Sheriff Hag. He refused to take any stimulant, and walked to the scaffold without a tremor. He professed penitence for his crime and claimed to have experienced conversion. The crime for which Warner was hanged was the killing of Frank Harris, a fellow-convict in the Indiana prison south, April 13, 1887. The case was carried to the Supreme Court, but the decision of the lower court that he must pay the penalty of his life was affirmed. By Warner's own request his body was given to the Louisville Medical College, through Dr. G. H. Peyton, who had attended the condemned man while in jail. Warner said, as he had no friends to claim his body, he thought he would do more good by letting the medical students dissect it.

The War-Claims Bill Passed the House.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The House yesterday passed the "omnibus" war-claims bill, coming over from last Friday, by a vote of 105 yeas to 100 nays. An extended debate took place over the amendment to appropriate $200,000 for the relief of the Protestant Episcopal Theological Seminary of Virginia. The amendment was agreed to yeas 110, nays 94.

At the evening session the House made the "omnibus" bill special order for March 20. Thirty-four pension bills were passed, including one increasing the pension of the widow of General Robert Anderson to $100 a month, and at 10 o'clock the House adjourned.

Two Victims of a Fire.

CONROCK, Wis., March 10.—J. H. Magrooy was burned to death in a lumber camp on Peshtigo brook late Thursday night. George McCartney, his partner, escaped from the slanty and made his way through the snow to a camp three miles away. He is badly burned and will die from exposure.

Allen G. Myers in Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Allen G. Myers, who has figured so conspicuously as a defendant in the tally-sheet forgery trials at Columbus, O., and who fled from Columbus and the State of Ohio a few days ago, is here, and says he will remain in this city some time.

Its superior excellence proven in millions of homes for more than a quarter of a century. It is used by the United States Government. Endorsed by the boards of the Great Universities, the Street, Purest, and most Healthful. Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder does not contain Ammonia, Lime, or Alum. Sold only in cans.

NEW YORK CHICAGO ST. LOUIS

Subscribe for the Gazette

Patent Leather Pumps AND Patent Leather Congress BOOTS

Suitable for party or reception, can be found at

G. COGSWELL & CO'S.

DECKS CLEARED FOR ACTION.

We have given the people a 60-day sale of goods that has been unprecedented in the history of trade in Rock county. We shall open this week a full line of

NEW SPRING GOODS!

Which we shall add too from day to day and AS USUAL shall keep the best stock of Dry Goods and Carpets in the county. Our stock of New Silks and Dress Goods is enormous, comprising all the new Silks weaves and latest shades.

Our Stock of Plushes, Fancy Braids, Passementeries, Etc., is replete with magnificent things. We call particular attention to our line of fancy Silk and wool pattern Braids, designs more elaborate than ever. Braids are quite the thing with which to ornament spring dresses. Make it a point to call and see us.

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

RIBBONS, LACES AND EMBROIDERIES!

OUR SPECIALTY FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 10TH.

We propose to close out a large line of Ribbons preparatory to the OPENING OF OUR MILLINERY DEPARTMENT!

Due announcement of which will be given. Read the following prices:

RIBBONS.

First quality Satin and Gros Grain No. 4 at	7c worth 12 1/2c	Picot Edge, Diyas this day at 1c a yard worth	03c
No. 5, at	9c worth 12c	A large line of Assorted Ribbons	02c
No. 7, at	11c worth 20c	Assorted Ribbons	03c
No. 9, at	13c worth 25c	Assorted Ribbons	05c
No. 12, at	20c worth 30c	Assorted Ribbons, worth up to 25c a yd.	10c

Also all our Staple and Fancy Ribbons at and below Cost.

LACES.

An Immense Line of all kinds, and for this day we offer LINEN TORCHON LACES neatly put up in pieces 12 yds. warranted in each piece at the following reduced prices:

1 inch wide 10c per piece.	1 1/2 inches wide 15c per piece.	1 3/4 inches wide 20c per piece.	2 1/4 inches wide 25c per piece.
1 inch wide 12c per piece.	1 1/2 inches wide 17c per piece.	2 inches wide 22c per piece.	3 inches wide 30c per piece.

An elegant variety of Oriental and Egyptian Lace Flouncings and Allover. We shall offer this dry to start the sale. Full Width Oriental and Egyptian Flouncings.

Creme, White and Beige at 25c per yard worth 50c
Creme, White and Beige at 40c " " 75c

Creme, White and Beige at 50c " " 85c
Creme, White and Beige at 75c " " $1 25

In connection with these we offer an elaborate assortment of Nainsook, Cambric and Swiss Flouncings and Allovers at equally as low prices, and our line of Embroideries we intend to make a special feature of this day's sale, for we have by far the most complete line of all the new designs ever shown in the city. It is impossible to quote prices but we say call and take a look through, as on this day we will devote one-half of our store for the exclusive use of the above lines.

CLOAKS.

Our stock of cloaks must be sold and we are cutting the price deeper than ever. A Jersey Jacket free with each garment.

ARCHIE REID.

SELF-INTEREST.

The appeals which are sometimes made to the public to trade at home, to patronize those who patronize them, to sustain home industry, are almost pathetic—we believe in sustaining home industry just so far as it can and does serve us better than we can do elsewhere. This and this only is the only ground on which we make a bid for your trade on custom made CLOTHING this Spring. We keep better goods for the same or less prices than can be purchased in other cities in or out of the State. We trim and make them in the most thorough manner. Our fits and styles are conceded to be unsurpassed. Please call and examine new spring styles just in.

J. L. FORD,
West Milwaukee Street.

Patent Leather Pumps AND Patent Leather Congress BOOTS

Suitable for party or reception, can be found at

G. COGSWELL & CO'S.

BABY CARRIAGES

Ever brought to this city is now on exhibition at

Wheelock's Crockery Store

Come in and get FIRST CHOICE. If your old white table ware is not making the table attractive enough get in

Handsome Print Dinner Set. $10.00

New Chamber Sets $2.50

Spotted for 10c and 15c. The Counters.

PROFESSIONAL CASES.

OGDEN H. PETERSON, DENTIST

Over Merchants' and Mechanics' Savings Bank, JAMESVILLE, WIS.

WILSON LANE, Attorney-at-Law,

Over Merchants' and Mechanics' Savings Bank, JAMESVILLE, WIS.

Chickering Hall,

(Room 2) 5th Avenue, N. Y.

"Having witnessed the excellent results of Mr. EDWIN E. LAYTON'S treatment of the throat, I am recommending him as an instructor of superior ability, and a gentleman whose excellent qualities should be known to everyone."

Former pupil of Dr. J. C. Peirce, of Canfield, Ohio, and of the University of Wisconsin.

ANGIE J. KING, Attorney & Counselor-at-Law

NO. 6, WEST MILWAUKEE ST., over Dr. J. C. Peirce's office, JAMESVILLE, WIS.

WILLIAM G. WHEELER, Attorney-at-Law

Over Merchants' and Mechanics' Savings Bank, JAMESVILLE, WIS.

T. S. NOLAN, ATTORNEY-AT-LAW,

Room 2, Carpenter Block, JAMESVILLE, WIS.

C. T. PEIRCE, DENTIST

27 West Milwaukee Street, JAMESVILLE, WIS.

O. E. BOWLES Real Estate and Loan Agent

Office in Bellman's block, opposite the National Bank, West Milwaukee St., Jamesville, Wisconsin.

Real Estate and Loan Agency

Office in Bellman's block, opposite the National Bank, West Milwaukee St., Jamesville, Wisconsin.

Saxe & Hoskins,

This firm is now prepared to buy and sell Pianos, Sewing Machines, and all kinds of household goods, and will give you better bargains than any firm in the Northwest.

Money loaned at 6 per cent. and on favorable terms.

Office in Smith's block, Jamesville, Wis.

Dr. GEO. H. MCCAUNEY, SURGEON DENTIST

OFFICE in Bellman's block, opposite the National Bank, West Milwaukee St., Jamesville, Wisconsin.

MISS BENEDICT, Piano and Class Training in Vocal Music

Rooms, Opposite Postoffice.

Teach piano and voice at any time, and according to the latest and most advanced methods.

Children's Musical Society will have a concert at 8 o'clock on Friday at 4 p. m.

WOOLENS!

We are agents for the Franklin and Knott's Woolen Mills and their goods are the most beautiful and reliable ever made. We will guarantee every piece and will return your money if you are not satisfied.

WE HAVE

Received our Spring stock on plot 11 and can show the largest line of PANTS, (Over 300 patterns) at $5.00 and upwards.

SUITS, (An endless variety) at $25.00 and upwards.

OVERCOATS, (Everything desired) at $15.00 and upwards.

Men Tailors are employed and fit, price, trimmings and workmanship guaranteed.

Kneff, Allen & Co.

19 East Milwaukee St.

Come to Beatrice, Nebraska.

Chapman, mill, cotton, cloth, soil, good schools, population 10,000, rich in every way. Will also show the latest in the line of improvements in the state. Improved water power. Light railroad station, with other advantages. Come, take advantage of the season. Excursions from all Eastern points at half rates.

BEATRICE, NEB.

SATURDAY MARCH 10

Published by THE GAZETTE PRINTING CO. 100 N. MILWAUKEE ST., JAMESVILLE, WIS. TERMS: DAILY $2.00 PER YEAR. PAYABLE MONTHLY. WEEKLY $1.00 PER YEAR. CASH IN ADVANCE.

NICHOLAS SMITH, President.

H. F. BLISS, Treasurer.

JOHN C. SPENCER, Editor.

GERMANY'S GRIEF.

Mourning the Death of William of Hohenzollern.

IT OCCURRED EARLY FRIDAY MORNING.

The Crown Prince Proclaimed Emperor Frederick III. at the Death of his Father.

—Solemnity from America and Other Lands.

THE FATHERLAND IN MOURNING.

BERLIN, March 10.—Emperor William passed away at the death of his father, King William I., at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning.

The death of the Emperor was announced to the people yesterday morning by the lowering to half-mast the standard over the palace. Flags at half-mast are displayed on all the public buildings. An immense concourse of people is gathered around the palace. The multitude is silent and sorrowful.

Eye-witnesses of the scenes at the death of the Emperor state that during the last few hours of his life he suffered no pain. Shortly after 5 o'clock all the members of the family staying at the palace, the court dignitaries, Generals and Ministers of State were summoned to the chamber in which the Emperor lay dying.

The Emperor was in a half-sitting position on a camp bedstead. All the members of the royal family took places at the bedside. The room was crowded. Prince William stood nearest the Emperor, half bending over the couch. He earnestly watched the death of the dying monarch until he expired.

The Emperor's remains lie covered with a white cloth on the bedstead on which he died, in the Imperial chamber. The body is surrounded by candles. The expression of the face is extremely peaceful and placid. The members of the royal family left the palace at 10 o'clock. Divine services were held in the Imperial chamber last night. The cathedral choir performed the choral parts of the service.

The Emperor died holding the Empress's hand. He had been in a stupor since 5 o'clock, during which he had refused to have food. "I am a man of peace," he said, "but if Russia forces me to war, I shall fully side with my ally, Austria."

Other reports state that the Emperor's last words were: "God be with us."

At the opening of the Reichstag at the Prussian House yesterday Herr von Pottkammer, Vice-President of the Prussian Ministerial Council, arose and said:

"I have the sad duty to make a most painful announcement to the House. It has pleased God to call his Majesty, the Emperor, in the twenty-eighth year of his glorious reign, from his earthly existence by a painful death at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia. The telegraphic intelligence received by me allows of the assumption that his Majesty, the reigning Emperor, arrived in the course of the night."

"During the last days of his life I received from the much-lamented King a confirmation of the power for which only left him with his life, the signature which lies before me, and which empowers me to close the Reichstag at the usual time when his Majesty is desired to address to the Emperor the request that he should sign only with the last letters of his name. His Majesty replied that he believed himself still able to write his own name in full. In consequence of this the historical document with the last signature of the Emperor, which I assume that it would be in accordance with the wishes of the Reichstag as well as of the representatives of the Federal governments, not to separate just now, but to remain in the hands of the Emperor, until after the arrival of his Majesty, the Emperor. I therefore do not make any use of the Imperial authorization beyond depositing it in the archives as a historical document, requesting your president to induce the adoption of resolutions which will reflect the feeling and conviction of the Reichstag."

"I do not need to give from this official place expression to the personal feelings with which the death of my master, the Emperor, has affected me. There is, in fact, no need of it, for the feelings which animate me live in the heart of every German. But there is one thing which I believe I should not conceal from you. It does not concern my sentiments, but my experience. It is of the fact, that amid the sorrowful scenes which the Reichstag just departed lived to see his death, the Emperor, who was only 59 years of age, died at the age of 90, at 10 o'clock this morning. You will not expect me at this solemn moment, when sorrow and grief are so deeply seated in the hearts of the nation, to speak of the whole nation in the light of the loss of our most beloved, exalted and venerable ruler. I may, however, say that the death of the Emperor is a great and terrible loss to the German people and their representatives will now, more than ever, be penetrated by the consciousness that the death of our exalted sovereign's house is theirs, and that the deeper the sorrow, pain and grief of our ever-remembered King and Emperor, the more indissoluble will be the link uniting Prussia's sovereign house and Prussia's people in good and evil days."

Herr von Kautler, the President of the House, closed the sitting with the words: "God protect the Royal House and the Fatherland."

At 12:30 Prince Bismarck appeared and the members rose in a body. The Chancellor, after a pause, said:

"The sad duty devolves upon me of making to you an official communication of what you have already, at 8:30 o'clock this morning, learned. Emperor William has been at rest with his father. In consequence of this, according to article 1 of the Imperial constitution, the Imperial dignity has fallen upon his Majesty, Frederick III., King of Prussia.

KIRK'S

FLOATING SOAP
—IS—
THE CHIEF
For the Bath, Toilet and Laundry.
Snow White and Absolutely Pure.
If your dealer does not keep White Goods Soap, send 10 cents for sample cake to the makers:
JAS. S. KIRK & CO.,
CHICAGO.

THESE WATERS ARE THE VIGOR OF THE BODY.
Have THIRSTED after the VIGOR OF BODY.
NEEDS AND THE VIGOR OF THE BODY.
FROM THE FOUNTAINS OF LIFE.
HEADACHE, BACKACHE, Dizziness,
Nausea, Indigestion, and all the POISONS IN SOCIETY. PILES upon the FACE, and all the EFFECTS leading to the DESTRUCTION OF THE BODY.
AND IN ANIMALITY should consult at once the CELEBRATED DR. CURE FOR CHRONIC NERVOUS DEBILITY.
CHRONIC and all Diseases of the GENITAL ORGANS.
It makes NO difference WHAT you have taken or WHO has failed to cure you.
You can get the CELEBRATED DR. CURE FOR CHRONIC NERVOUS DEBILITY, and you to their case can consult with the assurance of speedy relief and cure. Send 2 cents postage for a copy of our Circular.

NO SEND 2 cents postage for Celebrated Works on Chronic Nerves and Debility.
We will send you a copy of our Circular inter, free. Consult the old Doctor.
Thousands cured. SEND 2 cents postage
for a copy of our Circular.
and for Dr. CURE'S celebrated guide.

DR. CLARKE. A friendly letter or call met adventures suffering and shilling, and of the "Secret Herbs" (Secret Herbary) Soc. (stamped). Medicine and writing and everywhere, about four years ago.
Address,
F. D. CLARKE, M. D.
226 Grand Ave., Milwaukee, Wis.

Lined paper with 1888
by the
J. W. SALKS Judge.

Feb20:04

709CLOSURE SALE - CIRCUIT COURT
Rock County, William Venick, plaintiff vs. John C. Owen, Clara E. Owen, his wife, Nelson Wiggner, Fred L. Winstan and others.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue and pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale rendered in the Circuit Court of Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 11th day of November, 1888, in the Circuit Court for Rock County, Wisconsin, in the above entitled cause, the plaintiff and against the above named defendants, I will on Saturday, the 23rd day of February, A. D. 1889, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon of that day, at the front door of the rock place, in the city of Winona, Minnesota, offer for sale at public well as public auction, to the highest bidder therefor, the premises situated in said county of Rock and in said town of Owen, in the State of Wisconsin, and directed by said judgment to be sold and therefor consents to be sold.

[illegible]

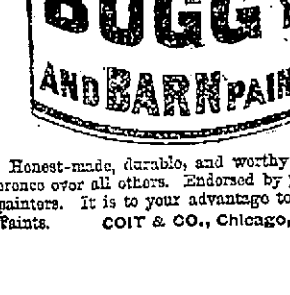

CIRCUIT COURT ROCK COUNTY—Henry Green, plaintiff, vs. John W. Green, Joseph Green, his wife, Esther Green, Stephen Green, his Green his wife Sarah A. Weid, his Esther, Edgar L. Howe, Edw. Adell, John L. Merion M. Gray and John L. Livingston, defendants.

The State of Wisconsin, to the said defendants and each of them:

You are hereby summoned to appear with your answer to the service of this summons exclusive of the day of service, and defend before the entitled court in the court aforesaid, on or before the day of failure to do so, judgment will be rendered against you according to the demand of the plaintiff.

BURNWIDDE & GOLDIN,
Plaintiff's Attorneys

F. O. Address, Janesville, Rock Co. Wis.
1st day.

[illegible]

BUGGY AND BARN PAINTS

Honest-made, durable, and worthy of preference over all others. Endorsed by practical painters. It is to your advantage to try Paints.

COIT & CO., Chicago, Minn.

Where are you going?
When do you start? Where from? How in your party? What amount of freight bagging have you? What rail-roads you prefer? Upon receipt of an answer to the above questions your bill will be rendered, free of expense, to the lowest rate. MINNEAPOLIS tables, other pulleys, or MINNAPOLIS other usual items. MINNEAPOLIS nation will have trouble, time and money. Agents call person where necessary. Parties ready to answer above questions should cut and preserve this notice for future reference.
and use the same as a guide. W. H. WARD
General Passenger Agent, St. Paul, Minn.
Send for new map of Northwest.

THE GAZETTE.

A large size Jackson refrigerator, nearly new, also smaller refrigerators and ice chests at Sander's store and furniture store, 18 and 20 North Main street.

Unusually large and replete with the latest novelties that the market affords—our stock of silks and dress goods. We will not be outdone, as a glance through our large and varied assortment of the above goods will plainly show.

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

The Williams fruit farm of 35 acres, including 15 acres of small fruit, in fine condition, and buildings that cost about $4,000, can be bought now for $6,000. Immediate possession given. $3,000 of purchase money can remain on property at 5 per cent.

C. E. BOWLES.

To Rent—A farm of 100 acres 1/2 mile south of city. New house and three large barns. Also warehouse and blacksmith shop on Court street and the Ogden block entire or in part.

CHAS. T. WILCOX.

To Rent—Two pleasant unfurnished rooms with closets—107 South Jackson street.

We can save you money on all kinds of dry goods. J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

For Rent—A Ten Acre Tobacco Farm Milton avenue—just outside the city limits. Apply to Wm. Fether, 27 North Main street, Janesville, Wis.

$500,000 to loan in large or small sums, at 6 to 7 per cent interest.

C. E. BOWLES.

Many new things in cotton dress fabrics just opened. Our line of fancy Scotch ginghams, Tied du Nord. Fine zephyr ginghams, in the delicate tints, etc., is a little ahead of all others, as is customary with us.

J. M. BOSTWICK & SONS.

Gentlemen can have their last seasons spring overcoats and suits renovated so as to look like new, at T. E. Eddy's, 54 North Franklin street.

I will discount $400 from price paid two years ago for a fine little farm of ten acres adjoining the city. This offer holds good for one week only.

O. E. BOWLES.

Trunks and suitcases cheap, at Wm. Sander's, next to Hancock & Sheldon's, South Main St.

15 tickets for St. Each ticket will buy a ten cent loaf or two five cent loaves.

J. A. DENNISTON.

See our display of lace, lace hosiery, lace gloves, etc., next Saturday.

ARCHE REND.

Two cases of Turkish bath towels just placed on sale, prices 10 to 50 cents. Value one third more.

BORN, BAILEY & CO.

The prices on linen laces for next Saturday are surprisingly low. See ad in this issue.

ARCHE REND.

Our line of 25 cent regular made hosiery is immense, the best value for the money we ever offered.

BORN, BAILEY & CO.

We now show a full line of ladies', gents' and children's spring and summer underwear—particular attention called to our 25 cent grade.

BORN, BAILEY & CO.

Great is our line of Ribbons. Hand-some are the colors, shades and tints. Reducions are the prices for next Saturday. Just read the ad.

ARCHE REND.

Plenty of 25-cent rubbers at the bargain shoe store; ladies' misses' and child's same price, heel and spring heel. Try a pair.

BROWN BROS.

$200,000 to loan at 6 per cent interest.

SAXE & HENKINS.

Wheelock's Crockery Store has just received a large assortment of new styles of baby carriages in low, medium and high prices. They are the best selection from several eastern factories.

Try a pair of oil grain shoes for $2.00, at Minor's, opposite P. O.

New wall paper and curtains at Sutherland's Bookstore.

To Rent—Flat over Miller Bros River street.

The Coming Show—We have just received a ladies' dog collar with a patent leather tip, made by L. P. Reed & Co., being the most stylish shoe on the market and we have concluded to sell at $2.95. Don't fail to take a look at it before buying. We shall try to convince you that we can save you money on every article we sell you.

BROWN BROS.

Wray & Blair have some good building lots which they will dispose of at a very low figure to any one who wants to build; will give plan and estimates for any kind of building with lots complete. Any one wanting a home in a good location would do well to see us.

Sutherland's Bookstore will hereafter be kept open until eight p. m. to accommodate customers.

One half of our store will be donated to the use of Laces, Embroideries and Ribbons next Saturday.

ARCHE REND.

THE REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.

Requested to Meet at the Club Rooms on Monday Evening.

To Consider Some Important Matters Concerning the Municipal Election.

The republican ward committees of the several wards are hereby requested to meet with the republican city committee at the Republican Club rooms (Lapin block) on Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock, to consider some important matters pertaining to the approaching municipal election. A full attendance of all the committees is earnestly desired.

H. F. BLISS, W. W. VANDERLIND, JOHN G. SAGE, J. C. FREDERICK, A. P. BENNETT, WILSON LANE.

Republican City Committee, JAMESVILLE, March 10th, 1888.

The ward committees are as follows: First Ward—S. Truison, I. A. Whitten, J. L. Ford.

Second Ward—O. F. Nowlan, J. G. Sage, J. C. Brownell.

Third Ward—O. H. Fether, C. B. Conrad, S. B. Phelps.

Fourth Ward—M. M. Phelps, J. B. Green, Foter Rowland.

Fifth Ward—C. O. Sutherland, M. E. Bennett, J. G. Wray.

BRIEFLET.

Costumes for the Mastodons will arrive to-night.

—This has been a regular March day—very disagreeable out of doors.

—There was a rehearsal of the Mastodons last evening that fairly wore the cobble.

—Prof. Hayner will play in the Home Mastodon orchestra on Monday evening.

—The Home Mastodons at the opera house on Monday evening. Secure your seats in time.

—Chautauquans will learn the first half of the review questions in the March Chautauquan.

—Mrs. C. S. Cheney and Mrs. M. R. Bolt, of Monroe, are guests of Mrs. E. C. Johnson, at the Park house.

—Mr. C. A. Carter, of Milwaukee, was among the numerous pleasant callers at the Gazette office last evening.

—The Odd Fellows held a pleasant social at Odd Fellows hall last evening at which there was a good attendance of young people.

—The number of people that have lightning rods up for the aldermen thunder-bolts are not so numerous as was predicted.

—Clifford H. Best, who is now employed by J. H. Walker & Co., of Chicago, in their drug department is home on a brief visit.

—The Rev. J. R. Effeneger, of Chicago, secretary of the Western Unitarian Conference, will preach at All Saints church to-morrow morning at 10:30 o'clock.

—Ed. Burlington's topicalism will stir up a good many well known Janesville people. It hasn't been formally named yet, but the christening will occur Monday night.

—An adjourned meeting of the common council will be held on Monday evening for the special purpose of considering the plans of the proposed new school building in the second ward.

—The funeral of the late Dr. A. P. Corvill will be held to-morrow (Sunday) afternoon at two o'clock, from the residence of Mr. J. M. Bostwick, Court street, Mrs. Bostwick being a niece of deceased.

—At a dangerous grade crossing on the Green Bay division, so the story runs, a religious crank has painted over the sign "Look Out for the Cars," and replaced it with "Prepare to Meet Thy God."

—R. Kassel, who knows pretty nearly every railroad man, drummer and merchant in Wisconsin, is in the city booming the Goodrich Rubber Company's spring styles. He comes so as to catch the rubber overcoat trade just in the nick of time.

—The Rectory Society will serve ham and eggs, white and homemade brown bread, tea and coffee, hot waffles and maple syrup at their supper in Kendall block, next Tuesday evening. Supper from 5:30 to 8 o'clock. Price 15 cents.

—The first number of the "Book County W. C. T. U. Banner," a neat little four column quarto monthly paper published at Clinton, Wis., has been received. The "Banner" is edited by Louise S. Wilcox, assisted by an able corps of associates. The paper is devoted to the interests of W. C. T. U., and as such it will no doubt prove a success. It is published in a very attractive and neat form. Subscription 25 cents per year.

—Darlington papers are greatly wrought up over a visit from the Klotzpoos. It seems that Dr. "Howard," the managing agent has again become matrimonially inclined, his last marriage being to a young and innocent girl employed in the composing room of a Darlington paper. The Waukesha Freeman says: "Howard was married while here, again at Janesville, and how many more times only himself and his 'wires' know."

—Street Commissioner Brown is meeting with much difficulty in thawing out the street curbs. Some time when the snow was deep, he cleaned the snow from both ends of the tile drains or culverts to allow the water to pass through unobstructed. In this he now thinks he made a mistake, as little by little the ice was formed in all culverts thus treated, until they are completely filled with ice, while the drains that were allowed to remain buried in the snow all appear to be free at this time.

—Crossett & Bonesteel's Blain Sun, Fancy Patent and Golden Wedding Flour are made from the choicest and best wheat that can be bought in Minnesota and Dakota, and warranted to give

THE BAINSFATHER FAMILY.

A Rare Treat of Scotch Music at the Opera House Last Evening.

The Bainfather family of Scotch vocalists appeared at the opera house last evening under the auspices of the Rock County Caledonian Society, and gave a concert and entertainment of rare merit. This family of vocalists consists of four members: Mr. and Mrs. Bainfather, Miss Maggie and Master John, daughter and son. All possess sweet voices, of great volume. The programme was made up of wholly Scotch songs and incidents, and contained twenty-two numbers. Mr. Bainfather is a very clever story teller, ventriloquist and besides possesses a rich tenor voice of rare sweetness, enabling him to produce the old Scotch ballads in a very captivating manner. Mrs. Bainfather also possesses a fine voice and received her share of the applause during the evening. The Highland King by Miss Maggie and Master John was particularly well received by the audience. It was a genuine Scotch entertainment, Mr. Bainfather aiming to keep strictly on the line of the original music and render the songs and music the same as in the old country, omitting all Americanization. In introducing the "Highland King" he remarked that "the 'Highland King' in Scotland consisted of only four steps, while in America it consisted of forty-eight." He did not know where the Americans found the extra forty-four steps. Miss Maggie and Master John would render it as in Scotland—four steps. And they did in a right clever manner and so well pleased was the audience that they responded to an encore. The Bainfather family is one possessing great ability as vocalists and deserve first class patronage wherever they appear. The bad storm prevailing last evening, together with the heavy roads, prevented a very large number of people from attending. Should the family ever visit Janesville again they will be sure of meeting a cordial reception and a full house.

—The republican city and ward committees held an enthusiastic and harmonious meeting at the Republican Club rooms last evening, M. M. Phelps presiding. The meeting was called for the purpose of organizing the party for the coming campaign. The political situation was talked over, but the meeting adjourned without completing the work laid out for it. It is not the intention of this committee to do anything to further the interest of any candidate or candidates previous to the nominating convention, but it is the wish that a thorough organization be perfected in order that a full vote may be polled for all the republican candidates at the spring election. A call is published in this evening's paper for a meeting of the committees on Monday evening at the Republican Club rooms, and it is desired that all members attend.

—On the cars last Monday morning going to Milwaukee, Dr. W. H. Whiting, of Janesville, accompanying a lady whose face showed the effects of long continued ill health. The doctor occasionally felt his seat to speak with her, and she always met him in such a cheerful, smiling, chatty way, that it was a great surprise to the writer when Capt. Patman, who was on the train, said to him, "That lady, Dr. Whiting is talking to is probably taking her last journey." He explained further that she was Miss M. A. Harvey, of Fulton, and that she was to undergo a surgical operation in Milwaukee which gave her only a chance for her life, but which would more likely result fatally than otherwise. Probably there were few of those on the train that knew the circumstances who did not often think sympathizingly and anxiously that afternoon of the pale, serene-faced lady who confronted so bravely the fact that in all probability she had come to the threshold of her last week on earth. The following morning the surgeons removed, after a most perilous operation, the large fibrous tumor, which threatened her life, and she survived the operation. Whether she recovers or not is still an uncertain question, but her splendid courage and perfect self-reliance add a large per cent to the meagre chance—Whiteside Register.

—Mr. A. W. Wheelock of this city, who has purchased the City Crockery Store, at Rockford, Illinois, is a young man who was born and brought up in Janesville and who has many friends here who will be interested in his prosperity. He is a young man of sterling integrity, and gives promise of a successful business career. He commenced business young, and successfully conducted the West Side Crockery store in this city for several years. He comes of a family who are all successful business men, and never have undertaken anything but what it succeeded. They are all in the crockery business. His oldest brother, Charles, in Peoria, Ill.; George in South Bend, Ill. His father is in the same business in this city where he has been thirty-four years, and Frank the youngest is in his father's store. The advantages of this syndicate in many ways are great. Especially in buying quantities together, buying of factories, giving import orders. One case in point—cut-glass prizes made in Bohemia now so popular as ornaments on hanging lamps are shipped in cases of ten thousand, rather than a large quantity for one retail store to use, but the Wheelocks can use several cases in their stores. We think Arthur W. Wheelock will be a desirable citizen for any city to secure, and while we are sorry to have him leave Janesville, the Gazette joins with his many friends here in wishing him success in every way.

SEASONABLE REMEDIES.

It commands Attention at Once.

Has been the conversation of the hour.

And there is a reason why, profound.

When money talks.

—Boston Courier.

Festive and Comparative.

From the low pudding many a plumb.

But in the winter time be quick.

Let us to one who's plumb.

—Washington Free Press.

A Joyous Homestead.

Tramp, tramp, tramp, the northern Marching.

Over the mountains spring will come.

And beneath the burning sun.

We shall catch the bugs and bees.

—Pittsburg Chronicle.

WANTED—By a willing young man attending our school, place to work out of school hours and Saturdays for his board.

VALENTINE BROS.

FUN ON THE QUIET.

Jottings and Gleanings of Interest to the Janesville Reader.

"Squelching" That was Well Deserved—Girls on a Cow-Catcher.

They were two charming girl young ladies who ought to have known better; but the way they kept their opinion of the play was a caution. Finally the stream of giggles and whispers was interrupted. A gruff old gentleman behind leaned forward. "I beg pardon, young ladies," he said. "Your hats prevent my seeing anything; but would you kindly be quiet and let me hear a little?" There was a murmur of applause from those around. The young ladies exchanged glances of the most intense righteous indignation, and sitting bolt upright were silent for nearly a minute. First Young Lady (softly)—"Brute!" Second Young Lady (louder)—"Isn't he horrid?" First Young Lady (louder still)—"He hasn't any manners at all!" Second Young Lady—"To speak to ladies that way." Gruff Old Gentleman—"Gotta voice!" First Young Lady—"Are those ladies?" Pert Young Man Beside Him (in same tone)—"Yes. Kitchen ladies." There was a general laugh, and the young ladies sat through the rest of the play without so much as a smile.

While Johnson, McNish & Slaton were in Rockford their prize and man gave one of the Home Mastodons a number of useful hints on making up. "A good many people wonder how we put on the cork," he said; "we get it off. It is the easiest thing in the world. The first thing is preparing the cork. It is taken, saturated with alcohol, put in a basin and set fire to. It burns to a crisp. Water is then thrown in and the whole thing shaken. The sediment drops to the bottom and the stuff that remains on top—that is, the light portion of the cork—is what is used. It is strained, mixed with a little glycerine and then dried until it crumbles like powder. Now, as to how it is used. Just watch me."

He took a large pinch of the black mixture from a box and dropped it into the palm of his hand. Then he saturated it with saliva, made one of his funny motions, gave a swipe here and a swipe there and the deed of darkness was accomplished. The saliva is what gives the valvety appearance ministers are so crazy to get. "A simple little matter this," said yet how many people believe we take a piece of cork, put in the gas jet, jab it on our jaws, burr our whiskers and let out a yell."

"I noticed in the papers a day or two ago," said Hugh Joyce this morning, "an item to the effect that boots had gone almost entirely out of use. This would have been true five years ago but just now it is a mistake. This winter more boots and extremely high shoes have been worn than for ten years past. There is a good deal of sense in it too. Doctors tell me that half the cases of colds and lung troubles come from insufficient protection to the ankles. A good many of the shoes that I sold for winter wear had lace tops reaching a third of the way up to the knee."

Two Janesville girls had an experience not so very long ago that is not often equaled. They were going west with a party of relatives, and by the time they reached Omaha ordinary passenger cars had grown monotonous. They decided to have a change. Before long the train stopped at a little way-station for water and the change presented itself. It came in the shape of a chance to ride on the cow-catcher!

While the engineer and fireman were busy on the tender, the girls and a blonde mounted companion perched themselves securely in front of the boiler-head, and the train pulled out without their being detected. Before the end of the first two miles they wished that they had been two.

"We had to ride thirteen miles before they stopped at the next station," one of the giddy maidens wrote back to a friend at home, "and the old thing ran so slow it took us almost to death. And besides, suppose we had struck a cow!"

They were in a third ward parlor and both were sitting on the same sofa. She was trying to edge along close enough to John Henry to make things interesting, while he on the other hand, seemed bashful, and sat bolt upright, trying to maintain a conversation.

"There's only one thing that seems inconvivial about this sofa," he said apologetically, as he tried to lean against his shoulder. "They haven't any backs."

"Yes," she responded, "And don't you think (looking up very archly) 'that it would be much nicer if it had arms'?" Then his eyes were opened, and judging from the shadows cast on the window curtain five minutes later the need for more arms was not so very urgent after all.

There is a third ward young man who has suffered a good deal of late from the depredations of the family hired girl. Among the carrier's pleasing ways was the borrowing of hair oil wherever she found it; and the young man's bottle seemed to suffer more than any of the rest. Consequently when he emptied out the oil one morning and poured in a half pint of odorless liquid glue it meant trouble. That night when the artless domestic started to undo her hair there was a "boom" or revelry by night that loosened the shingles on the wood-shed. Next morning a meek, but word-lashed apparition came down the back stairs with tuffs of hair sticking out in every direction, and with bald spots that looked as if months had been at work upon her. The hair oil bottles have not been molested since, but there is a certain young man who stands a good chance of being snuff-bagged some dark night and dropped into the river—and he knows it, too.

Anyone wanting an experienced nurse, please call at 154 South Jackson street.

Mrs. S. J. EMMONS.

THE CITY CHURCHES.

What the Services Will Be To-Morrow.

BAPTIST CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Pleasant streets. Rev. G. H. Hodge, D. D., pastor. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30.

Presiding by the pastor, Y. P. S. C. E. at six o'clock. The congregation will join in the Union Temperance service in the evening, at the Court Street church.

ALL SOULS CHURCH—Corner of Court and Main streets. Rev. Joseph Walter, pastor. Sunday services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m.

The Rev. J. R. Effeneger, of Chicago, secretary of the Western Unitarian Conference, will preach at 10 a. m.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH—On Jackson street. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m.

Morning services 10:30. Centenary celebration exercises and address by the pastor. Bible school at noon. Y. P. C. B. meeting 6 p. m. No evening service on account of the union temperance meeting at M. E. church. Thursday evening meeting 7:30. Subject: "Consolation of Faith." Chapter IV.

COURT STREET M. E. CHURCH—Corner of Main and Court streets. Rev. T. De Witt Pease, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

The pastor will preach in the morning and evening. Morning subject, "The Significance of Baptism." Union Temperance meeting at night. Subject, "Prudent Temperance, or the Method that Must Win." Sunday school at noon. Y. P. C. B. at 6 p. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30. You are cordially invited to attend these services.

CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. PETER'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. CHARLES CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. ELIZABETH'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. CATHERINE'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. ANNE'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. CHARLES CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MARY'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. ELIZABETH'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MARGARET'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. CATHERINE'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. ANTHONY'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. JOHN THE BAPTIST CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and Court streets. Rev. W. E. Brown, pastor. Services at 10:30 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. Sunday school at 10:30 a. m. Prayer meeting at 7:30 p. m. on Tuesday evening.

ST. MICHAEL'S CHURCH—Corner of Jackson and